Vantage

/ˈvæn.tɪdʒ/ · noun · A position giving a strategic advantage or a commanding view.

WHY THIS NAME

Local search is a hill. The businesses at the top of the map get the calls; the ones below get the leftovers. Vantage is the high ground — the spot from which you see the whole market and the market sees you.

It is a real word, so it needs no explaining. It is one idea, so it stretches across the three things the product does: climb the ranking, capture the leads, and let AI pick out the ones worth your time.

TAGLINE

Take the high ground.

USAGE

Always Vantage, capital V — never VANTAGE or vantage in running copy. The product is "Vantage", not "the Vantage app".

The assistant inside the product is Vantage AI. Features are described, not branded: "lead qualification", not "LeadIQ™".

Own the top of the map.
Answer only the calls that matter.

One product, three jobs

Vantage puts local businesses at the top of Google's map results, turns that visibility into leads, and uses AI to qualify every lead before a human picks up the phone.

 Rank Audit, fix and keep improving the Google Business Profile until it sits in the local three-pack.	 Lead Capture calls, messages and booking requests from the profile in one inbox — nothing slips.	 Qualify Vantage AI asks the first questions, scores the fit, and hands over only the leads worth a call.

WHO IT'S FOR

Owner-operators — plumbers, dentists, salons, roofers. They live off the phone.

Multi-location brands — franchises that need every branch ranking, not just the flagship.

Local-SEO consultants — freelancers who manage profiles for a roster of clients.

HOW WE SAY IT

ONE LINE
Rank higher on Google Maps. Get better leads.

TWO LINES
Vantage gets your business to the top of local search — and lets AI sort the leads so you only talk to the ones ready to buy.

CATEGORY
Local growth platform for Google Business Profile.

Symbol and wordmark

The symbol is a V cut from two heavy bars, with a square set at its shoulder — the vantage point above the terrain. The wordmark is Archivo Extra Bold, tracked tight. Together they form the primary lockup.

SYMBOL

App icon, favicon, avatars. Never smaller than 16px.

WORDMARK

Headers, footers, documents. Never smaller than 20px tall.

STACKED LOCKUP

Narrow spaces: social avatars, badges, vertical banners.

Colorways

Three versions, no more. Ink on ground is the default. The square carries the amber on light and dark grounds; on an amber field the whole mark goes to ink.

Ink, ground, one amber

Vantage is mostly ink on a warm grey ground. Amber is a signal, not a paint: it marks the primary action, the qualified lead, the one number that matters. The single place it runs as a field is the poster statement — always with ink type on top.

NEUTRAL RAMP

AMBER RAMP

Fills and tints

100–300 for tinted backgrounds, tags and hover states.

Base

500 for buttons, icons and display-size type only — it is 3:1 on the ground.

Text on ground

700 for any amber word at paragraph size. Never 500.

Archivo, and only Archivo

One family in three weights. Extra Bold for anything that has to be read from across the room, Regular for everything else, Semibold for the odd label. Everything sits flush left.

BODY 15 / 400

Google rewards profiles that answer quickly. Vantage AI drafts the reply; you approve it in one tap. Average response time drops from days to minutes.

LABEL 11 / 600

QUALIFIED · EMERGENCY · OAK PARK

CAPTION 11 / 400

Ranking measured daily from 24 points across the service area.

Tracking

–4% at display size, –1.5% for headings, 0 for body, +8% for uppercase labels.

Numbers

Big numbers are headings: a rank, a lead count, a response time set in 800.

Never

Centered text, italics, a second typeface, or all caps above 13px.

Say it like a good foreman

Our customers are busy people who fix things for a living. They don't read marketing; they read the number and the next step. Vantage talks the way they do — short, certain, specific.

Confident, not cocky State what happened and what to do. Skip the hype words: supercharge, unlock, seamless.	Plain, not bland Trade language is fine — "three-pack", "service area". Corporate language isn't — "leverage", "solution".	Direct, not blunt Lead with the fact, follow with the fix. Never scold. Never joke about a lost lead.

Congratulations on unlocking your growth journey!	You're #3 for "plumber near me". Two reviews would make it #2.
Our intelligent assistant is reaching out to your prospective customer.	Vantage AI is asking Maria about the leak. You'll get a summary in a minute.
Unfortunately this lead does not meet your qualification criteria.	Not a fit: outside your service area. Archived.

Vantage AI speaks for the business, not for us.

To a lead it says "we" meaning the plumber — "We can be there by 4." It never mentions Vantage.

Numbers before adjectives.

"7 qualified leads" beats "great results". If there's no number, there's probably nothing to say yet.

Real trades, black and white

Photographs show the people and places our customers actually are: a van at a kerb, a dentist's front desk, a high street from above. Everything prints in grayscale so the amber stays the only color on the page.

Fig. 1 — The vantage: the service area seen from above. Use as hero imagery.

Fig. 2 — The customer: at work, not posing.

DO

Shoot from above or at street level — the two viewpoints in the name.

Show work: tools, vans, waiting rooms, shopfronts.

Crop hard and square-cornered. Let the 2px rule frame it.

DON'T

No colour photographs, no amber tints or duotones.

No stock handshakes, laptops in cafés, or people pointing at screens.

No screenshots of Google's own interface as decoration.

Lucide, 2px, ink

Icons come from the Lucide set and are never redrawn. They sit on the current text color; amber is reserved for the one icon that marks a state worth acting on — a qualified lead, a rank gained.

 map-pin · profile	 trending-up · ranking	 phone · call lead	 message-square · inbox
 sparkles · Vantage AI	 star · reviews	 search · keywords	 bar-chart-3 · insights
 users · locations	 bell · alerts	 check · qualified	 x · not a fit

Sizes
16px inline with text, 20px in buttons, 24px in navigation, 32px and up only in marketing.

Stroke
Always 2px, round caps and joins — the Lucide default. Never filled, never outlined twice.

Color
Inherit the text color. Amber only for the state that needs action; never as decoration.

The lead-qualifying chat

The brand in the product: ink type on the grey ground, surfaces separated by rules rather than shadows, one amber action. Vantage AI's messages carry the sparkle; the verdict panel carries the color.

Hi, do you do emergency plumbing in Oak Park?
Kitchen pipe is leaking under the sink.

✦ VANTAGE AI

Yes — we cover Oak Park. Is the water shut off, or is it still running?

Still dripping, I put a bucket under it. How soon can someone come?

✦ VANTAGE AI

We can be there today between 3 and 5pm. Same-day call-out is $95, credited against the repair. What's the address?

412 Lake St. That works, thank you.

One statement per surface

Marketing pieces are posters: a field, a statement in display type, the lockup in a corner.

Three fields are allowed — amber, ink, ground — and every piece uses exactly one.

SQUARE POST • 1080×1080

Amber field, ink type. The hero format.

STORY • 1080×1920

Ink field. One number in amber.

AD / BANNER • FLEXIBLE

Ground field with rule. One amber button.

Statement

Max eight words. A fact, a number, or a dare. Never a feature list.

Lockup

Symbol top-left, or wordmark bottom-left. Never both, never centered.

Photography

Optional, grayscale, as a second panel — never behind the type.

The short version

DO

Draw the structure. 2px rules between sections, visible cells, square corners.

Flush left — headings, body, button labels, numbers.

One amber thing per view — the action or the number that matters.

Photos in black and white, framed by the grid.

Lead with the number. Rank, leads, minutes — set big, explained small.

DON'T

No rounded corners, no floating cards. Nothing casts a shadow it doesn't need.

No centered text — not in heroes, not in buttons, not on posters.

No gradients, no second color. Amber is flat and alone.

No tinted or duotone photography. Grayscale only.

No hype, no emoji. If a foreman wouldn't say it, we don't write it.

Take the high ground.
